

Take your next step

Hi there,

Kia Kaha Queenstown Lakes workshops start on Monday 5 October, and they offer a wide array of free sessions for community members to attend in Queenstown and Wānaka.

Whether you've lost work and you're looking for a new job, you're interested in income support options, career advice, retraining in a new field, or you're a business owner and wanting to learn about financial options and initiatives to support you and your staff, Kia Kaha Queenstown Lakes can help.

Workshops include topics like:

- Pathway planning - starters: guidance and advice on how to plan and pick the best path for those in the early stages of their career
- Pathway planning - transitioners: guidance and advice on how to plan and transition to a new career or business
- Income support options and current job opportunities
- Career advice: how to find a new job or choose a new career
- Education for a new future: options to retrain, upskill or change career
- Business support: learn more about financial options and initiatives to support your business and staff
- Budget advice courses

Numbers are limited and registrations are required, so please book early in advance to attend the workshop or workshops of most interest. Workshops are free to attend, and tickets can be booked at <https://events.humanitix.com/tours/kia-kaha-queenstown-lakes>.

A timetable of workshops can be found at www.qldc.govt.nz/kia-kaha. More events and dates will be added as we confirm new presenters, locations and times.

Queenstown workshops begin on Monday 5 October, with Wānaka workshops following suit on Monday 12 October.
