

Give peace a chance – a world in transition.

Wednesday, 1 December

The tragic genocides in both former Yugoslavia and Rwanda galvanised the creation of the International Criminal Court, to prosecute and in time deter perpetrators of mass crimes.

Queenstown woman Brigid Inder, OBE, has spent much of the past two decades working alongside the ICC - reporting on their efficacy and shortfalls, joining peace talks between armed militia groups and governments, reintegrating child soldiers back into their communities and much more.

Continuing conflicts show we are still stuck in stale paradigms, numbed by old habits, and the new consciousness needed is not yet fully formed. “We are a world in transition. Collectively, we are between stories.”

She will share her experiences, her thoughts on the world’s slowly changing consciousness and on the converging crises of conflict and climate change. As part of this, she is co-lead in Aotearoa New Zealand of the global Stop Ecocide campaign, to make severe and long-term damage to the environment, ecosystems and species an international crime within the ICC’s scope.

Registration will open on our Eventbrite page one month prior and is required to ensure your seat and for Covid contact tracing purposes. Koha will be split between Victim Support and Wakatipu Reforestation Trust, please bring cash :)
