Despite some politicians' and industry claims to the contrary, climate change is a thing. And mitigating it is urgent if we want a liveable world.

More than 30 leading scientists, politicians, CEOs and activists demonstrate what is needed in "Kiwis in Climate," being launched in Parliament in March.

Join us for the Catalyst panel of "Kiwis in Climate" authors and local climate leaders sharing real-world examples of progress being made right here. And a vision for future climate action across our community, business and government.
