Queenstown is growing fast - but are we growing well? Join Catalyst Trust and Lightfoot Initiative for an evening conversation with Skye Duncan, one of the world's leading urban designers, about what it takes to make a city work well for locals and visitors.

Skye has spent her career helping cities redesign their streets and public spaces; “the connective tissue of our communities”. Now based in Aotearoa, she is bringing these global lessons home.

You'll also hear from the Lightfoot Initiative about what's happening right here – the challenges, the progress, and how our community is already part of the solution.
